

-----
Title: Uncommon Shore Fish

Author: Cpt. Piddlewash
-----

In thee sacred trust
I be bestowin' our knowledge. Ne'er afore
hath sailor nor wench
set down in pen the
secrets o' Sosaria
fishing. Tis only by the will o' the Order of the Dragonfish
that I do.

Tis now up to you
to protect this
knowledge and earn
the trust o' the Order. This knowledge
can make you wealthy.
Guard it well.
Bluegill sunfish:

Be wary o' these
bluegills, they be
a bit snooty but
they be tastin' great
on a cracker.
Brook trout:

These be found in
brooks mostly, but
sometimes streams,
ponds, creeks, rivers,
inlets, fords, and
occasionally puddles.
Green catfish:

Don't let the green
color scare ye away,
it be delicious!
Folks what eat them
say they make yer eyes
turn green.
Kokanee salmon:

I named this'n fer me
favorite aunt in hopes that she would leave me her ship. Then she left it to her boyfriend so I changed it to Kokanee.

Pike:

This fresh water fish
be lookin' a bit like
their ocean cousin
the barracuda. But don'
be fooled, they bite!
Pumpkinseed Sunfish:

Found in rivers and
other shallow waters,
this fish be so named
because it be first
caught by me friend,
Pumpkinseed Smith.
Rainbow trout:

These trout be colored a bit like
rainbow salmon but
they're not, they're
trout.
Redbelly bream:

The secret ta catchin'
these particular bream
is ta be fishin' near
the shores.
Smallmouth bass:

'Tis believed that
this fish is uncommon
simply because it be a picky eater.
Uncommon shiner:

This fish is not to be confused with the common shiner.
The uncommon shiner
tastes way better.
Walleye:

This be a tricky devil
'cause he can see ye coming. 'Tis best to fish fer them at night
or ta be wearin' a
worm costume.
Yellow perch:

Ye can sometimes see
these swimmin' near rocks and such.
They be easy ta spot
cause they be yellow
somewhere on thar body.